DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Regarding claim 23, in line 2, there is no antecedent basis for "the base."

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 15-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Smithson et al. [US 5,654,873].

Regarding claims 15-17, Smithson et al. disclose a disk drive assembly including an electromagnetic interference shield (figure 2) comprising:

- a frontal plate (203) having a plurality of openings therethrough;
- a side panel (figure 2) perpendicular to the frontal plate and extending rearwardly thereof; and

- at least one electrically conductive resilient spring finger clip (figure 2) protruding in a lateral direction from the side panel.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Smithson et al. in view of Gamble et al. [US 6,166,901].

Regarding claim 21, Smithson et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for the being disposed between a latching mechanism and a base of a disk drive carrier.

Gamble et al. disclose a disk drive carrier (15, figure 1) having a base (21) and a latching mechanism (29).

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to use the carrier design of Gamble et al. for the disk drive of Smithson et al., for the purpose of providing support for the disk drive.

7. Claim 22 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Smithson et al. in view of Anderson et al. [US 6,058,016].

Regarding claim 22, Smithson et al. further disclose the frontal plate having a top and bottom edges, the side panel having top and bottom edges and an upper plate connecting the top edge of the frontal plate to the top edge of the side panel (figure 6a).

Smithson et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for the electromagnetic interference shield having lower plate connecting the bottom edge of the frontal plate to the bottom edge of the side panel.

Anderson et al. disclose an EMI shielding plate (40) having upper and lower plates extending from the top and bottom edges of a frontal panel (figure 3).

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to add the lower plate to the frontal plate of Smithson et al., as suggested by Anderson et al., for the purpose of strengthening the shielding structure.

8. Claim 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Smithson et al. as applied to claim 22 above, and further in view of Gamble et al. and Anderson et al.

Regarding claim 23, Smithson et al., as modified, disclose the instant claimed invention except for the upper and lower plates of the shield being configured to permit the shield to be mounted to the carrier base.

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to have the shield be configured to permit the shield to be mounted to the carrier base for the purpose of enabling the shield to fix within the carrier.

Art Unit: 2841

9. Claim 24 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Smithson et al. in view of Gamble et al. and Anderson et al.

Regarding claim 24, Smithson et al. disclose a disk drive assembly including an electromagnetic interference shield (figure 2) comprising:

- a frontal plate (203) having a plurality of openings therethrough;
- a side panel (figure 2) perpendicular to the frontal plate and extending rearwardly thereof; and
- at least one electrically conductive resilient spring finger clip (figure 2) protruding in a lateral direction from the side panel.

Smithson et al. further disclose the frontal plate having a top and bottom edges, the side panel having top and bottom edges and an upper plate connecting the top edge of the frontal plate to the top edge of the side panel (figure 6a).

Smithson et al. disclose the instant claimed invention except for the being disposed between a latching mechanism and a base of a disk drive carrier and the electromagnetic interference shield having lower plate connecting the bottom edge of the frontal plate to the bottom edge of the side panel.

Gamble et al. disclose a disk drive carrier (15, figure 1) having a base (21) and a latching mechanism (29).

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to use the carrier design of Gamble et al. for the disk drive of Smithson et al., for the purpose of providing support for the disk drive.

Anderson et al. disclose an EMI shielding plate (40) having upper and lower plates extending from the top and bottom edges of a frontal panel (figure 3).

It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time invention was made to add the lower plate to the frontal plate of Smithson et al., as suggested by Anderson et al., for the purpose of strengthening the shielding structure.
